

IV.

Youth Eligibility

WIA Youth

The Workforce Investment Act (WIA) serves two youth participant populations:

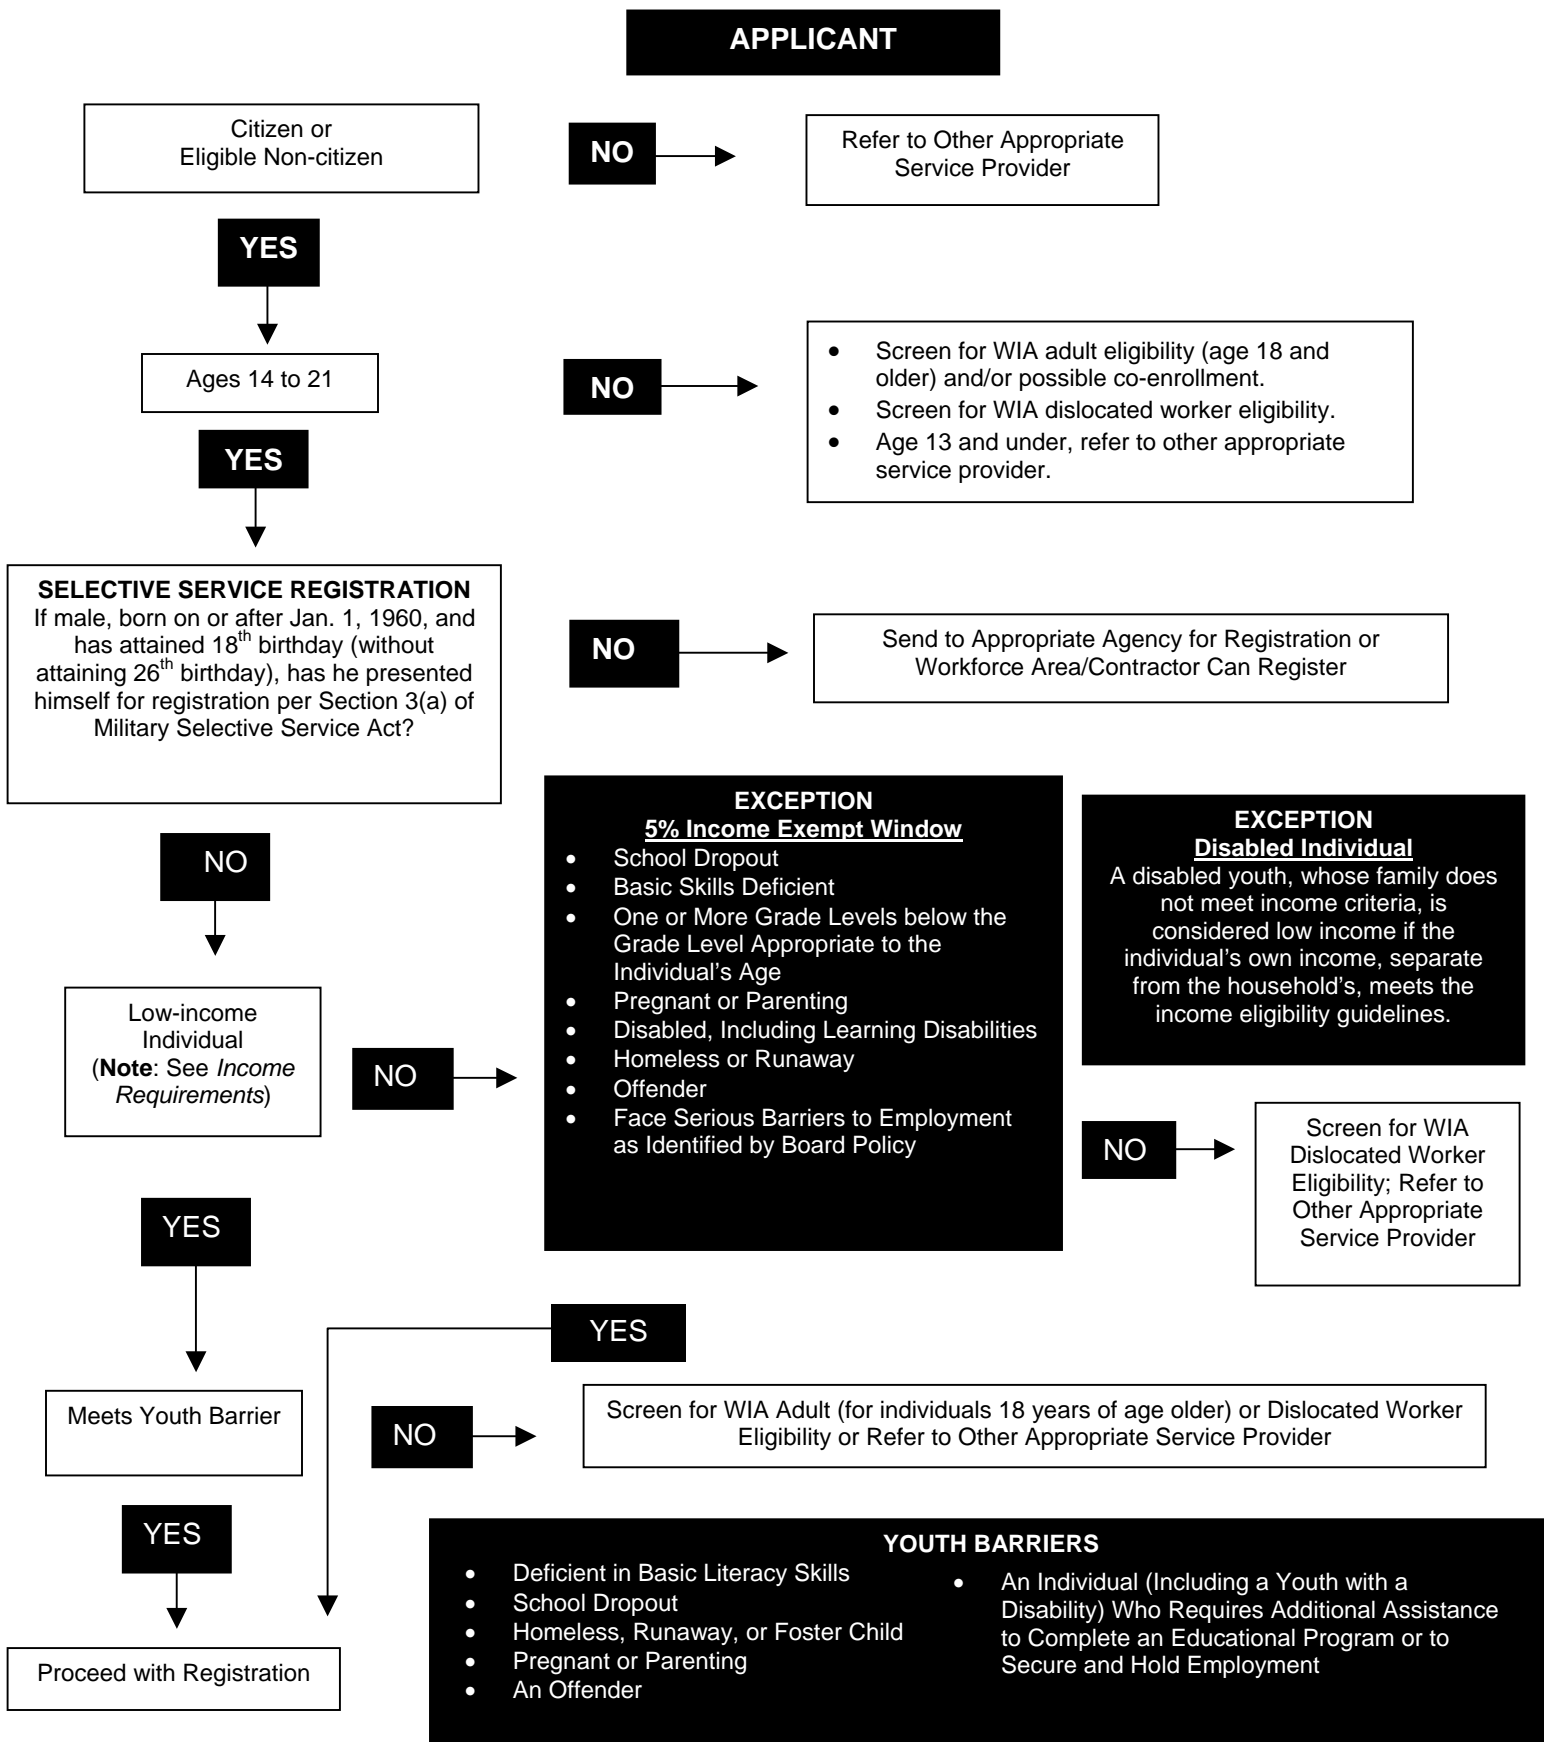

- Older youth, ages 19–21; and
- Younger youth, ages 14–18.

WIA is very specific when addressing youth programs. Local youth programs offer year-round services (not just summer activities) and are designed to:

- Provide an objective assessment of each youth participant, including a review of academic and occupational skill levels, as well as the service needs of each youth;
- Develop an individual service strategy for each youth participant, including identifying an age-appropriate career goal;
- Provide preparation for postsecondary educational opportunities; and
- Provide linkages between academic and occupational learning.

This section provides information for determining eligibility for the youth program. See Section V for verification and documentation for WIA eligibility.
